November Program Gwen Roth Solo Exhibit at PCAC

Tired of the craziness and chaos of life? Need a little breathing room to find some inner peace and quiet? As artists, we all strive for the same thing: to share our passion and joy through our work, but even artists need to take a break from their work once in a while and enjoy some calm reflection. Take a walk with local photographer and Three Cities Art Club member Gwendolyn Roth as she shares some of her favorite images and the path she took in discovering them at her exhibition, Viewpoints: Finding Inspiration In Our Everyday World.

The TCAC November meeting to be held specially at Plymouth Community Arts Council (located at 774 N. Sheldon Rd at Junction Street near the railroad underpass in Plymouth). Gwen's presentation will showcase a transformative adventure that uplifts and encourages, with a sprinkling of surprise here and there. Her work focuses on just about anything that catches her eye - there is something for everybody. The common thread connecting her images is a restorative viewpoint of the world, no matter how big or small that world is.

Please join Gwen for an enlightening walk around her little world and enjoy the hidden treasures she has found. She looks forward to seeing you at Plymouth Community Arts Council, Monday, November 6.
